The Grapes of Wrath

The Grapes of Wrath is a novel by John Steinbeck that was published in 1939. The novel tells the story of the Joad family, who are forced to leave their home in Oklahoma during the Dust Bowl. The family travels to California in search of work, but they face many challenges along the way.

The Grapes of Wrath is a powerful and moving story about the struggles of the working class during the Great Depression. The novel is also a classic example of the family story of escape and refuge. The Joad family is forced to flee their home, but they find strength and hope in their journey together.

The Kite Runner

The Kite Runner is a novel by Khaled Hosseini that was published in 2003. The novel tells the story of Amir, a young boy who grows up in Afghanistan. Amir's life is changed forever when he witnesses the rape of his best friend, Hassan.

Amir is haunted by his guilt over Hassan's rape, and he eventually flees to the United States. In the United States, Amir starts a new life, but he is still haunted by his past. The Kite Runner is a powerful and moving story about the consequences of guilt and the importance of redemption. The novel is also a classic example of the family story of escape and refuge. Amir is forced to flee his home, but he eventually finds a new home and a new family in the United States.

Other Classic Family Stories of Escape and Refuge

In addition to The Grapes of Wrath and The Kite Runner, there are many other classic family stories of escape and refuge. These stories include:

* The Diary of Anne Frank by Anne Frank * Night by Elie Wiesel * The Joy Luck Club by Amy Tan * The House on Mango Street by Sandra Cisneros * Americanah by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie

These stories are all different, but they share a common theme: the importance of family and community. These stories show us that even in the darkest of times, we can find hope and strength in the people we love.
